The Lynk

Multi-Functional PC Remote

The Azulle team continues to communicate and collaborate with people and use the feedback to better enhance their technology. The Lynk is compatible with all major operating systems (Windows, Android, Linux) and mobile application environments, which makes it even easier to navigate between surfing the web, watching movies, or chatting with friends and family.

The Lynk Remote will officially release November 21, 2016. The Lynk Remote will retail at $30 and is available for pre-order now on Azulle's official website.

About Azulle

We are a U.S. based technology company that came together based on the principle that technology should be more accessible and fulfill the various needs of people. What started as a small group of individuals in 2013 with a single product is now becoming one of the fastest growing major PC companies in the world. How did we do that? We worked closely with our customers and learned about their day to day challenges and obstacles, which helped us in developing effective solutions that made technology simpler and easier to use. With the support and loyalty of our customers, Azulle continues to grow across all geographies and customer segments for mini PCs, PC sticks, and accessories.

Create - Enhance - Innovate... Technology Inspired by Real People.
